

Certified First Aid, CPR and AED Unit Training on-site!

OSHA regulation 1910.151 (b) requires facilities more than four minutes away from emergency care to have at least one staff member certified in CPR and First Aid.

U.S. Compliance is now pleased to offer First Aid/CPR and AED Unit training at your location. While we have consistently recommended this important training, we are now able to offer the service first hand. With affordable pricing and two payment plans, compliance with this OSHA requirement is now easier than ever. Let U.S. Compliance help you meet this regulation and fully integrate this required training into your existing health and safety program.

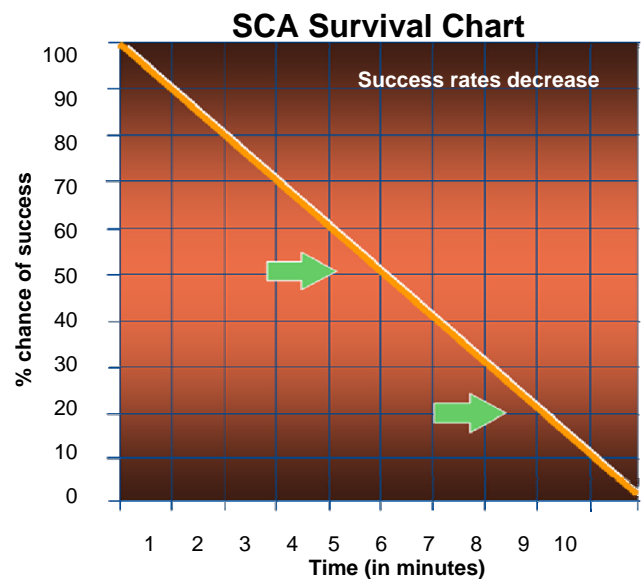

IMPORTANT LIFE SAVING FACTS:

FACT: Today, 25 people will die from Sudden Cardiac Arrest while they are at work. Over half of these deaths could have been prevented if employers were equipped with Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs) and properly trained in CPR.

FACT: The current survival rate for sudden cardiac arrest without intervention is less than 5%, but when an AED is used within the first 3-5 minutes, survival rates can exceed 75%.

FACT: The likelihood of successful resuscitation decreases by about 10% with every minute that passes.

FACT: Early defibrillation with CPR is the only way to restore the SCA victim's heart rhythm to normal.

Will your EMS arrive in time?

U.S. Compliance's comprehensive line of life saving equipment and services include CPR and First Aid training, FDA approved AED units (with device delivery and placement) and thorough Program Management services. Classes are taught at your facility by paramedics, nurses and EMTs with real world experience. Our course covers adult and child/infant CPR and proper AED use following the American Heart Association guidelines. Each student who completes the course receives an American Heart Association Certification good for two years—twice as long as the American Red Cross Certification!
